Joining Educators and Students with Library of Congress Resources

Fall 2009 Workshop Schedule

Milner Library

Illinois State University

Teaching with Primary Sources

This fall, the Teaching with Primary Sources program at Illinois State University is offering several professional development opportunities for classroom teachers, media specialists, teaching librarians, and support personnel. Participants will build the knowledge and skills needed to access and utilize digital primary resources from the Library of Congress. Participants will produce a standards-based learning experience using Library of Congress primary sources while earning 25 CPDUs or 2 ISU graduate credits. The dates of the workshops are listed below. To register for a workshop, please use the registration form on the back and send it via fax or email to the Teaching with Primary Sources office at Illinois State University.

The workshop course requires two face-to-face meetings on campus, as well as work to be completed online. Both sessions will be held in room 164d at Milner Library on the campus of Illinois State University.

Please note that we are now offering a Level 2 course. You must complete Level 1 training before taking Level 2.

Level 1

- Online workshop – required face-to-face on September 15 from 4:30-7:30 and December 1 from 4:30 -7:00

Level 2 (*prerequisite – completed AAM or TPS Level 1)

- Online workshop – required face-to-face on September 17 from 4:30-7:30 and December 3 from 4:30 – 7:00
